

Specification Information	Link to lesson
AQA The consequences of migratory flows to analyse the economic, environmental, social and cultural impact. Candidates need to study economic migration at a national and international scale.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Advantages and disadvantages for source and destination countries (focus on Filipino and Polish migrants) • Discussion on how the current global economic crisis might affect global migration. • Economic gain or economic drain debate – national level • Research into economic advantages and disadvantages
Edexcel One of globalisation’s inevitable effects is that people are encouraged to move to escape from poverty or to take advantage of new opportunities. This escalating population migration (both within and between countries) is creating a new population dynamic. The rate of these changes is occurring at all scales, challenging individuals, communities and governments. Exploring the nature of the unprecedented numbers of voluntary/economic migrants	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Advantages and disadvantages for source and destination countries (focus on Filipino and Polish migrants) • Nature of migrants explored through Filipino and Polish examples • Nature of migrants explored through identification of global migration pattern • Economic, social, socio-economic and political issues surrounding migration • Exploring the nature of economic migration
WJEC Characteristics of different types of migration. The economic, social and environmental impacts of migration on exporting and receiving countries/regions. Internal or external, forced or voluntary, duration and age Research a variety of opinions on migration and reasons why groups or individuals hold those opinions.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Immigration and emigration patterns • Advantages and disadvantages for source and destination countries (focus on Filipino and Polish migrants) • Characteristics of migration explored through Filipino and Polish examples • Exploring economic migration • Identifying economic and social impacts through current issues surrounding migration in the UK • Exchange of opinions about economic migration in the UK
OCR Population is dynamic and changes in response to a number of demographic, social, economic and political factors. The factors vary from place to place. The study of how populations grow over time to illustrate the roles of natural increase and net migration	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Reasons behind migration to the UK through Filipino and Polish examples • Identifying patterns of global immigration and emigration • Discussing how the current global economic crisis might affect global migration • Economic, social and political factors that surround immigration in the UK today • Migration as an economic drain – increasing population and putting more pressure on public services, housing and the environment